

LOIS WITH THE MONTGOMERY NEWS, FEBRUARY 9, 2020

Wow! What a week this was, a lot of nice weather with rather mild temperatures for Winter days, lots and lots of snow we estimate around 15 inches of snow in the Friday storm, then we had 16 below zero Sunday morning and 30 above in the afternoon. The beautiful full moon to go snow shoeing at night or ice skating. I remember being a kid and we loved to go sliding on those moonlit nights. Sonny and I rode up North Hill this week and checked around as we look down on THE FARM and all seemed well there; coming back home there were 3 fox in the long hill, they were beautiful and looked healthy.

How many have been out during a white out? I have never until this week. Our daughter Penny and Sonny were in the driveway talking, so I went out on the back porch to say hello to her. As I was standing on the porch a gust of wind came up and it blew the snow from the trees bringing down a shower of snow, filling the area in front of me and could not see only the snow coming over me, I was covered in seconds and so was the porch. I became white as snow in seconds, and it was so fast and then it cleared right up. It was amazing yet weird.

Lorraine St.Onge enjoyed the many Birthday cards that she received this week and her Family and Friends that stopped in to wish her a H/B or by phone calls. Ava Walker celebrated her birthday with school mates and her two cousins from Williston, Vt. came up also. Gramma Barbara Walker and Maggie Elkins decorated for the party at Gramma's home on South Richford Road. They enjoyed a few games, went sliding, and Gramma Barbara had two ice cream cakes, one chocolate with chocolate chips, one with confetti and strawberries with cool whip toppings. Everyone had a wonderful time and each had bags of candy to take home with them. Maggie Elkins celebrated her Birthday with sisters Susie Ewings, and Gracie Jones, they took her to the newly renovated Duke's Public House on the Williston Road. Maggie said it was very neat and excellent food. She also has enjoyed the company of her children Clay and Kelly Maxfield, and friends. SOOO, all three have had a wonderful week of celebrating their special day.
