

LOIS WITH THE MONTGOMERY NEWS, JANUARY 12, 2025

I think my saying of "Let It Snow..Let It Snow" will come to an end. This past week it has snowed day and night, from a few flurries, to a snow squall or a white out. This snow came on muddy grounds and has piled up or drifted into whirling piles of snow around a vehicle in the yard or someplace, Mother Nature's Artistic work. Unreal the havoc the snow caused many people, going off the icy roads, there were school bus incidences but luckily no injuries reported here in Franklin County. The fellows that have snowplows were kept busy, and I saw a few snowmobiles out and about. Looked like fun. The Ski areas prayers were answered that is for sure. Wednesday, Sue Peters had called me earlier as we had planned on going to Lowell to go Bowling, but before we were to leave and join the other players, Sue received a call that it was cancelled. BOOHOOOO!! Friday afternoon the sun came out and said HELLO, I am still up here

That snow was coming in my face and I could not see earth. We had a few hours without any snow, but it came back, as we all know. But again this Sunday has been a bright warm sunny afternoon. I had a few B/day cards to go out and seeing it is so nice I went over to the Post-Office to mail them out, and a friend of mine was out walking and we chatted a few minutes. He runs the tram car at Jay Peak, and it was shut down today because of the wind up there, that was earlier in the day. He was amazed at all the snow we have received this week.

Today is Sunday 1/12 and John Gorton came and officiated the Service, his sermon was entitled

"The Holy Spirit Coming." He had Vivian Elbe and Sandy Bowman read Scripture, and John usually has a couple of new Hymns for us to sing..and Thankfully our Organist Patrick Evans never misses a note. Once the service was completed, I had John come to the Altar Rail to say a Special Prayer for My Brother Colin Corse whom passed away 1/9/25. My Brother has not been well for the past few years, and has been to different facilities to get proper care, and medicine he needed for his diabetes and dementia. May He Now Rest In Peace..God Bless!!!

I want to Thank all my Family/Friends that sent me words of Sympathy in Memory of my Brother

Colin. May he Rest In Peace.. Thank You for your Friendship, kindness and Love.

Happy Birthday to: Jared McAllister 1/19; Bernie Boucher 1/21; Scott Ramey, Kevin Diette, my handsome Nephew Steve C. 1/22; Mike Carpenter, Jeremy Martinson 1/24; Loretta Heimbecker 1/25.
